THE GREAT FLOOD

Most people are familiar with Noah's ark and the great flood that wiped out mankind. In fact, most cultures on earth have a variation of the flood story, which indicates that mankind experienced a common event.

Thousands of years ago, the world had become so evil and corrupt, that Yahweh decided to wipe out all living things to start over. But there was one righteous man named Noah. Yahweh wanted to save Noah and his wife, and three sons and their wives. He instructed Noah to build a huge ark that would preserve mankind along with all the different species of animal life found on earth. Noah's sons were named Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

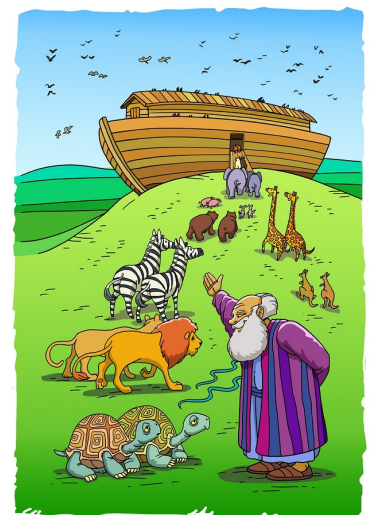

It took a long time for Noah to complete the building of the ark. He warned the people that the flood was coming, but they just laughed at him and ignored his warnings. Once the ark was completed, Yahweh instructed Noah to load all the animals on board, two by two, a male and a female. However, Noah was told to bring seven each of the clean animals.

Then it started to rain. By this time, it is likely that the people whom Noah warned were starting to panic. But it was too late for them. Noah already had shut the ark. It rained for forty days and nights. The waters got so deep that they covered the tallest mountains. Eventually, Noah sent a dove out to see if she could perch on anything. After seven days, the dove brought a leaf back to Noah. The waters receded and the ark came to rest on Mount Ararat. So began a new beginning for mankind.
